Profile

I am a self-taught Front End Developer and I am passionate about programming. I decided to change career and turn my passion into profession. To achieve my goal, I spent last 6 months broadening my knowledge and catching up on the latest web development trends and technologies. I also utilized this time, to build apps using the latest React features and libraries. What I am looking for is the opportunity to learn and develop new skills and work as a part of a team.

I have been working as a manager of a large team in one of the busiest London hospitals for the past 7 years. This helped me to develop my organisational and problem solving skills.
